Important Notice: Partial Change of Application Guidelines for International Student Admission to Graduate Study Programs AY2022, Graduate School of Engineering, Nagoya University due to COVID-19

Due to COVID-19, the selection method for International Student Admission to Graduate Study Programs AY2022 (Beginning in April 2022) at the Graduate School of Engineering will be partially changed as follows.

I MASTER'S PROGRAM(HAKUSHI-ZENKI-KATEI)

1. Eligibility Requirements

Preliminary Examination of Eligibility

<Current>

The following students are exempted from the preliminary examination. Even the following students, however, those who intend to apply by the eligibility (3) or (4) are subject to preliminary examination:

①Full time or research students who are currently enrolled in the School of Engineering or the Graduate School of Engineering, Nagoya University

②Students who plan to begin study as research students in the School of Engineering or the Graduate School of Engineering in October 2021

If students are admitted as a research student admitted in October 2021 and then postpone the admission period or decline the admission of the research student, the preliminary examination is exempted, however, those who intend to apply by the eligibility (3) or (4) are subject to preliminary examination.

All other applicants must submit the following required documents to the Student Affairs Division, Graduate School of Engineering by 16:00 on July 15 for the preliminary examination. Applicants will be notified of the results on August 5.

The deadline for applicants who already possess a college student visa and who are expected to become research students at the School of Engineering or the Graduate School of Engineering, Nagoya University in October 2021, applying by the eligibility (3) or (4) of master’s program is September 16 at 16:00.

Such applicants will be notified of the results on October 6 by mail.

<After Change>

The following students are exempted from the preliminary examination. Even the following students, however, those who intend to apply by the eligibility (3) or (4) are subject to preliminary examination:

①Full time or research students who are currently enrolled in the School of Engineering or the Graduate School of Engineering, Nagoya University

②Students who plan to begin study as research students in the School of Engineering or the Graduate School of Engineering in October 2021

③Students who are admitted as research students in the School of Engineering or the Graduate School of Engineering beginning in April 2021.
If students are admitted as a research student admitted in October 2021 or April 2021 and then postpone the admission period or decline the admission of the research student, the preliminary examination is exempted. However, those who intend to apply by the eligibility (3) or (4) are subject to preliminary examination.

All other applicants must submit the following required documents to the Student Affairs Division, Graduate School of Engineering by 16:00 on July 15 for the preliminary examination. Applicants will be notified of the results on August 5.

The deadline for applicants who fall under the following conditions is September 16 at 16:00.

- Applicants who already possess a college student visa.
- Applicants who are expected to become research students at the School of Engineering or the Graduate School of Engineering, Nagoya University in October 2021, applying by the eligibility (3) or (4) of master's program.
- Applicants who applied for the general admission held in August of the Graduate School of Engineering, Nagoya University (AY 2022) and could not visit Japan to take exam due to COVID-19.

Such applicants will be notified of the results on October 6 by mail.

I MASTER'S PROGRAM(HAKUSHI-ZENKI-KATEI)

5. Selection Method

<Current>

Academic Ability Examinations (Written and Oral)

<After Change>

Academic Ability Examinations

(Online Selection (including Oral Examination)) ※

※There is no change in the test date and time.

The Details of the examination contents will be notified to applicants by the Department.

Important Note

Those who plan to apply for international Student Admission should be aware of the changes in the application guidelines and prepare a sufficient communication (Internet) environment and a personal computer with a microphone and camera at home in advance.

For inquiries regarding the entrance examination, please contact Admission Section, Student Affairs Division, Graduate School of Engineering.
II DOCTORAL PROGRAM (HAKUSHI-KOKI-KATEI)

1. Eligibility Requirements

Preliminary Examination of Eligibility

<Current>

Students currently enrolled in the Graduate School of Engineering, Nagoya University, those registered under the research student program, or those who plan to begin study as research students in the Graduate School of Engineering in October 2021 are not subject to preliminary examination. Even among these students, however, those who intend to apply by the eligibility (7) or (8) are subject to preliminary examination.

If students are admitted as a research student admitted in October 2021 and then postpone the admission period or decline the admission of the research student, the preliminary examination is exempted, however, those who intend to apply by the eligibility (7) or (8) are subject to preliminary examination.

All other applicants must submit the following required documents to the Student Affairs Division, Graduate School of Engineering by 16:00 on July 15 for the preliminary examination. Applicants will be notified of the results on August 5.

The deadline for applicants who already possess a college student visa and who are expected to become research students at the School of Engineering or the Graduate School of Engineering, Nagoya University in October 2021, applying by the eligibility (7) or (8) of master's programs is September 16 at 16:00. Such applicants will be notified of the results on October 6 by mail.

<After Change>

Students who fall under the following conditions are not subject to preliminary examination. Even among these students, however, those who intend to apply by the eligibility (7) or (8) are subject to preliminary examination.

①Full time or research students who are currently enrolled in the Graduate School of Engineering, Nagoya University
②Students who plan to begin study as research students in the Graduate School of Engineering in October 2021
③Students who are admitted as research students in the Graduate School of Engineering beginning in April 2021.

If students are admitted as a research student admitted in October 2021 or April 2021 and then postpone the admission period or decline the admission of the research student, the preliminary examination is exempted, however, those who intend to apply by the eligibility (7) or (8) are subject to preliminary examination.

All other applicants must submit the following required documents to the Student Affairs Division, Graduate School of Engineering by 16:00 on July 15 for the preliminary examination. Applicants will be notified of the results on August 5.

The deadline for applicants who fall under the following conditions is September 16 at 16:00.

- Applicants who already possess a college student visa.
- Applicants who are expected to become research students at the School of Engineering or the Graduate School of Engineering, Nagoya University in October 2021, applying by the eligibility (7) or (8).

- Applicants who applied for the general admission held in August of the Graduate School of Engineering, Nagoya University(AY 2022) and could not visit Japan to take exam due to COVID-19.

Such applicants will be notified of the results on October 6 by mail.

【Contact information for entrance examination】
Admission Section, Student Affairs Division at the Graduate School of Engineering, Nagoya University
TEL : +81-(0)52-789-3978・3974
E-mail: kouadmission@adm.nagoya-u.ac.jp